Claims 1,3,4,6,7

The subject matter of claims 1,3,4,6 and 7 does not appear to involve an inventive step in view of the document 1 cited in the ISR and the document 2 cited in the same.

The inventions disclosed in D1 and D2 share the problem in that to obtain a status, wherein a server computer and a client computer connected to a network share a printer. D1 discloses a product consisting of obtaining status information of the printer via the server computer without depending on an operating system. The person skilled in the art would easily conceive the idea of applying the technical feature two-way communication by using a language monitor of the server computer employed in D2 to the invention disclosed in D1 to solve that problem.

Claims 2,5,8

The subject matter of claims 2,5 and 8 does not involve an inventive step over D1 ,D2, D3.

The technical feature status information to be obtained is option information , status display information has already been employed for the same purpose in D3 (see [from page 31 line 46 to page 33 line 36, fig 43,54,55]).
